The Tongue Hotel

“worth the journey”

WELCOME TO TONGUE
FÁILTE GU TUNGA

The North coast of Scotland is a truly unforgettable experience. With sandy beaches, spectacular sea cliffs and dramatic mountain backdrops, the abundant landscape is wild yet peaceful and always dramatic - whatever the weather!

Sutherland, a sparsely populated county offers the visitor a true taste of authentic Scotland. Here it is possible to sample the rugged untouched beauty of the Highlands, to bask in open horizons, discover miles of moorland, hills, mountains and breathtaking coastline.

Sutherland and its neighbour Caithness make up the most northerly part of mainland Britain - but don't let that put you off as you will quickly discover that “it's worth the journey!”

All roads in this part of Scotland eventually meander to Tongue and it is here that most travellers stop to experience true highland hospitality and comfort. The Tongue Hotel, a former hunting lodge, was built in the late 1800's by the Duke of Sutherland. The unique character and atmosphere of the hotel has been maintained throughout, much of the furniture pictures and exhibits are original, however they are now enhanced with modern comforts and facilities. Guest rooms are well appointed many offering views of the surrounding countryside, the Kyle, Ben Hope and Castle Varrich. This is a Hotel that you can relax in, it has a genuinely warm welcoming atmosphere, where you are assured excellent service, comfort, and an attention to detail.

At the Tongue Hotel you can enjoy the experience of dining by cosy real fires in our elegant restaurant or relaxing bar. The daily changing menu promises to deliver a taste of Scotland on a plate, utilising fresh local produce available from a natural Scottish larder. The cocktail bar is well furnished with an extensive range of malts and an interesting range of fine wines to compliment your dining experience!

Sutherland is a country pursuits paradise. The Tongue Hotel provides the perfect location and opportunity for the angler to both pursue this passion and also to discuss his hobby enthusiastically in the “Brass Tap”, the hotel's public bar, while enjoying a pint of award winning Caledonian Ale and an excellent range of malt whiskies.

Hotel owners David and Lorraine and their enthusiastic team look forward to helping you enhance your perception of great Highland Hospitality!

So whether you come for a week, a night or even just for dinner we feel sure you will find enough reasons to return again and again.
